PRAYER MEETING IN A STORM.

[See President Buchanan's last Proclamation.]

A gale came up from the south-west;
'Twas fierce November weather;
But the ship had felt such a storm before,
And her planks still held together.
And thus, though the howling tempest showed No signs of diminution,
The passengers said, "We'll trust our ship,
The staunch old Constitution!"

The captain stood on the quarter-deck—
"The sea," he said, "they batter us;
'Twas my watch below in the former gale—
I doubt if we'll weather Hatteras.
The wind on the one side blows me off,
The current sets me shoreward;
I'll just lay to between them both,
And seem to be going forward."

"Breakers ahead!" cried the watch on the bow,
"Hard up!" was the first mate's order;
"She feels the ground-swell," the passengers cried,
And the sea already board her!

The foremast split in the angry gust;
In the hold the ballast shifted;
And an old tar said, "If Jackson steered,
We shouldn't thus have drifted!"

But the captain cried, "Let go your helm!"
And then he called to the boatswain,
"Pipe all hands to the quarter-deck,
And we'll save her by Devotion!"

The first mate hurried his trumpet down;
The old tars cursed together,
To see the good ship helpless roll
At the sport of wave and weather.

The tattered sails are all a-back, Yards crack, and masts are started;
And the captain weeps and says his prayers,
Till the hull is 'mid-ships parted;

But God is on the steersman's side,
The crew are in revolution;
The wave that washes the captain off
Will save the Constitution!

New York, Dec., 1860. BAYARD TAYLOR.

AN ACCOMPLISHED PICKPOCKET.—The pickpockets of London and Paris have long enjoyed the reputation of being the most adroit in Europe; but if we may believe the statement of a Mr. Charles W., Stuttgart can rival these cities. That gentleman was walking in King street, looking at the shops, when he was accused by an obsequious little man, who offered him services to show him the lions of the capital, but the other refused the offer. The officious personage, however, was not offended, but politely asked him what o'clock it was. The other answered that he did not know, as his watch had stopped, and continued his walk toward the Museum of Natural History, which he entered. He had not been there many minutes before the same person came up to him with an air of an old acquaintance, and offered him a pinch of snuff. This Mr. W. declined, saying he was no snuff-taker, and walked away; but some minutes after, having a presentiment of something being wrong, he felt for his snuff-box, but instead of it found a scrap of paper in his pocket, on which was written, "As you are no snuff-taker, you do not require a box." "He thought the logic of his unknown acquaintance rather impertinent, and resolved to bear his loss like a philosopher; but he was amazed when, a moment after, he discovered that his watch had also disappeared, and in his other pocket was another note, in the following words:
"As your watch does not tell the hour, it would be better at the watchmaker's than in your pocket." It is unnecessary to say that he never heard any further tidings of the two articles.

The most characteristic instance of carrying politeness to an extreme, came off not long since at a Hibernian ball, as related to us by one of the sons of Erin, who keenly appreciates a good thing. It seems that one gay Lothario, in crossing the room to request Bridget's hand in the next reel, stumbled over the outstretched foot of Terrence O'Grady, who promptly arose, and in the politest manner, said:
"I beg your pardon, sir."

"No offence—no offence, sir, at all," responded the other, "it was my fault."

"I beg your pardon, sir, it was my fault entirely," was the response, accompanied with a graceful bend of the body, and wave of the hand.

"No, sir," answered Mister O'Toole, "yer entirely in the wrong, sir; I tell ye it was altogether my fault!"

"I tell ye it was not, sir," responded Mister O'Grady, "do ye mane to say I'd be telling a lie, sir?"

"Bad luck to ye, sir; d'ye mane to say I'd be telling a lie, sir, when I tell ye it wasn't yer fault," responded O'Toole, quite wrath.

"Bad luck to yer breeding, ye ignorant pollution! D'ye think ye'd be getting the better of me in manners?" shouted Mister O'Grady, as with a tip and a blow he laid the unfortunate O'Toole as flat as a pan-cake. The latter rallied, and a rough and tumble ensued, which ended in the expulsion of both gentlemen from the ball room.

THE BELT GIVEN UP.—From Bell's Life we learn that Sayers has given up the Champion's belt, though not without reluctance, and that it has been handed over to the Staleybridge Infant. Some $600 remain to be paid on the new belt, and Bell's Life appeals to the friends of Sayers and Heenan to raise it at once, otherwise they must remain with the maker.

One principal point of good breeding is to sue out his behaviour to the three several degrees of men—our superiors, our equals, and those below us.

We are commanded to "improve the waste places." We are afraid the ladies are not improving their waste places, but they are at least reducing them within the narrowest possible limits.

Old anglers say, that if you wish to catch a fine fish, you must not throw your baits directly at him. Young ladies may take notice.

LADD, WEBSTER, & CO.'S
IMPROVED TIGHT-STITCH SEWING MACHINES.

A few of the many reasons why these Sewing Machines are preferred above all others.
1. They are remarkably simple in their construction. A child can operate them, and understand the mechanism.
2. They are the strongest Sewing Machine made. It is almost impossible to break or get them out of order.
3. They are sure in their operation; finishing the work in a uniformly perfect manner.
4. They make a tight lock-stitch, alike on both sides of the work, which cannot be unravelled.
5. They stitch, hem, bind, fill, run, and gather, without wasting.
6. They sew equally well the lightest and the heaviest fabrics.
7. They sew over the heaviest seams without changing the tension or breaking the finest thread.
8. They use any No. of Cotton, Thread, or Silk, directly from the spool.
9. They use a straight needle; curved ones are liable to break.
10. The needle has a perpendicular motion.
This is absolutely necessary for heavy work.
11. They have a wheel feed; none others are in constant contact with the work.
12. They run easily and almost noiseless.
13. They are not liable to oil the dress of the operator.
14. They do not require a screw-driver to set the needle.
15. They do not have to be taken apart to oil or clean.
16. They do not form ridges on the under side of the work, nor ravel out, nor are they wasteful of thread, as is the case with all chain-stitch machines.
17. They are capable of doing a greater range of work, and in a more perfect manner, than any other Sewing Machine, as is proved by the result of our challenges for a trial, which has never been accepted.
